STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Michael Hay

Our newest spotlight student is co-op Michael Hay. The semester marks his third rotation, and this time he has returned to join the Flight Test Engineering team. "This summer, I led the development of the G500 Flight Control System certification test cards. These cards will pave the way for future certification programs like G600, FLC, and beyond," he says. "Additionally, I served as a fully functional Flight Test Engineer both on the aircraft in the Telemetry Room in support of various tests, including G600 Loads and Parameter Identification, as well as G500 engine health checks." Other students have shared their gratitude for Michael's positive attitude, willingness to help others, and showing consideration for different opinions. People also praise his eagerness to learn new topics and add valuable information to conversations.

Michael comes from Hernando, Missouri and is currently attending Mississippi State University. He originally started his college career as a music education major. After three semesters, he made the decision to instead pursue a degree in Aerospace Engineering. When he returns to school in the fall, he plans to continue his studies and graduate in May of 2019 with a degree in Aerospace Engineering and a double minor in Mathematics and Music. After college, he hopes to retire relatively early and teach undergraduate engineering classes at a university.

With a top-tier college program, Gulfstream is among the most suitable aircraft manufacturers to prepare college students for a fulfilling career in the aerospace field. Michael credits Gulfstream with giving him firsthand knowledge of the methods and practices that are prevalent in the industry, as well as an in depth understanding of numerous aircraft systems. In addition to going the extra mile, Michael encourages others to always maintain a positive attitude in the workplace, even when things are getting you down. "Employers will always recognize it and commend it."

Would You Rather?

Have every song you listen to slowly transition into "All Star" by Smash Mouth OR have every movie you watch slowly transition into Shrek?

- Easy. I could watch Shrek every day.

Have a dog with a cat's personality OR have a cat with a dog's personality?

- Definitely dog with a cat's personality.

Fight a horse-sized duck OR fight 100 duck-sized horses?

- 100 duck-sized horses.

Have cheeto dust on your fingers for the rest of your life OR have a popcorn kernel stuck in the back of your throat for the rest of your life?

- Ha. This is a good one. Cheeto dust on my fingers for sure.

Have the ability to teleport OR the ability to time travel?

- Time travel all day.

SPOOKY SAVANNAH SITES

MOON RIVER BREWING COMPANY

The Moon River Brewing Company is not only known for its beer, but for its haunted history as well. The building was built in 1821 and was the City Hotel before it became a hospital that served those with yellow fever. The second floor of this building is off-limits to guests because it is said to be haunted by a woman named Mrs. Johnson, who is said to have been spotted by employees of the brewery and ghost tour goers.

THE PIRATE'S HOUSE

The Pirate's House is one of Savannah's oldest buildings, so it is no surprise that it is the home to some spirits. There is an underground tunnel attached to this building and occasionally people will hear voices coming from its depths. There have been recorded sightings of a pirate named Captain Flint, who died in the Pirate's House.
